In the early 1800s only the wealthy could afford to pay for a doctor, whose effectiveness might depend on chance (the General Medical Council only starting a register of qualified doctors in 1858).

Advert for a surgeon, a step down from a  $\rightarrow$  physician or doctor. Ref. ZS 14 (Barrow Record Office)

Ref. DKEN 3/3/2 (Carlisle Record Office)

19th Century Doctor's Bill: Glossary of Terms

Antimonial Wine = used to induce vomiting

Burnt alum = a cure for mouth ulcers

Cathartic powder = a strong laxative

Leeches = an annelid (marine animal) used for bloodletting

Linctus = a cough mixture

Oil of almonds = used to treat constipation

Paregoric elixir (Camphorated Opium Tincture) = a cure for diarrhea

Phial = a bottle

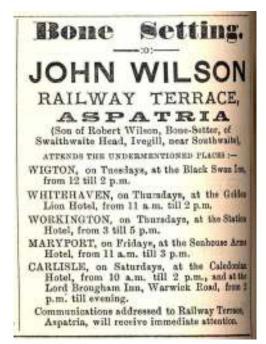

Senna = a natural laxative

ROBERT CHARNOCK, SURGEON, APOTHECARY, AND PRACTITIONER O MIDWIFERT, Begs leave to inform the Inhabitants of the Town and Parish of CARTMEL, That he has purchased and opened the Shop of the late Mr. Brockbank, And has increased the stock by an assortment of articles from BOOTLE, IN CEMBERRAND, WHERE HE PASTOCILY RESIDED AND PRACTICED THE MEDICAL PROFESSION: He therefore solicits the support of the Public, and hopes to ment encouragement, by an auditious attention to the welfare of his Patients. Pare and, 1806. G. Ashinrene, Printer, Ulvers

Date	Description	Price	2
July 1809		£	S.	d.
	A phial of oil of almonds			6
	Extracting a tooth
	Journey		10	6
	Two doses of rhubarb			4
	Cathartic powder			6
	Senna		1
	A box of pills		3	6
	Journey		10	6
	Cathartic powder			6
	Two doses of rhubarb			4
	A phial of linctus		1	8
	A phial of eye water		1	2
	Senna		1
	Cathartic powder			6
	Burnt alum
August	A box of ointment			4
	Paregoric elixir		1	6
	Two leeches		3	1
	A box of ointment			3
	Senna		1
	A phial of spirit of Hartshorn		1	10
	Rhubarb		1	10
September	Rhubarb and ginger			6
	Journey		10	6
October	Senna		1
	Rhubarb		1
	Senna		1
	Cathartic powder			6
	A linctus		3
	A phial of Antimonial Wine		1	4
January 1810	The linctus No.2 and phial		6	6
	Castor oil		11
	Senna		1
	A box of pills		3	6
	A journey		10	6
	A box of pills		1	6
	Total	23	1	8

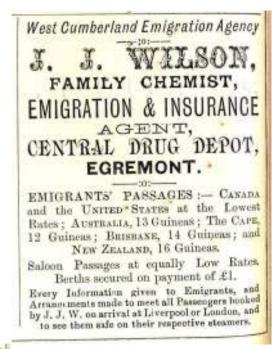

Spirit of Hartshorn (Ammonium Bicarbonate) = 'smelling salts'

In the 19th century, the lack of regulation of the medical profession meant that a variety of people offered their services, at a variety of prices, with a variety of 'selling points'!

How would you have coped with a broken bone before the days of free hospitals?

Tempted by the New World? In Egremont you could book your ticket and stock up on all you might need to fight disease overseas.

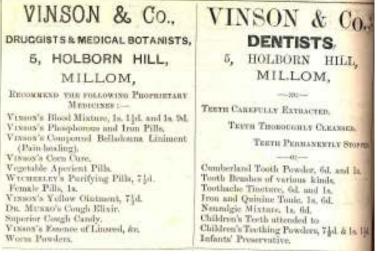

Many pharmacists had extensive interests in the trade.

In Cleator Moor one pharmacy made up its own medicines, stocked traditional cures such as leeches, used chemists' skills to make drugs for animals, and offered dentistry. all you might need to fight disease overseas.

Before the medical professions and practices became truly separate it was common to see a firm practising in a number of areas; in Millom it was herbal and pharmaceutical chemists and dentistry.

From the range of supplies available at the dentists you can see that it included treatments made up using chemists' skills including Quinine Tonic.

Although women had particularly long played an active role in medicine as nurses, Florence Nightingale's exploits in the Crimean War (1853 - 1856) gave the role a new respectability.

It was during the Crimean War that she had pioneered much in nursing practice and this Cumbrian example refers to Scutari, which gave her the opportunity to conduct her work.

LINT FOR THE WOUNDED

A Meeting of Ladies in Kendal, has been held in the Town Hall, for the purpose of considering in what manner the Lint or Linen, suitable for Hospitals, and which at home is of little value, can be best collected together, and transmitted to the hospitals of our Army in the East, especially to Scutari, where it is much needed, and would prove of the greatest use.

They need not remind their Townsmen, and especially their Townswomen, that thousands of our Soldiers are now suffering from severe privations in the Camp, and exposed to constant danger, from the attacks of a most numerous enemy, and that the consciousness that they are not forgotten at home will cheer them in the night-watch, and in the storm of battle. Still less do they feel it needful to refer to the wounded, who are patiently enduring agony in the wards of a hospital, far from their homes and their families, -nor yet to the example of those Ladies who, with Christian beroism, have left their land to watch by the bedsides of the sick and the disabled, ministering to their sufferings and their wants.

They feel confident that the subject need only be mentioned in Kendal, a system for collection established, and that all will come forward to contribute what they can spare in response to this appeal.

The following Ladies have kindly consented to give information in their respective districts, should any one be in doubt as to the character or description of old Linen or Lint required :-

HIGHGATE. KIRKLAND. STRAMONGATE.

Mrs. RICHARD WILSON,
Mrs. BRATHWAITE, Mrs. MOFFAT, Miss ABIGAIL HADWEN, Mrs. JOHN BANKS,
Mrs. COOPER. CLIFF TERRACE, &c. Miss BRUMWELL. Miss IRELAND. KENT TERRACE, CASTLE STREET, &c.

NEW STREET. Miss THOMSON,
PROUDFOOT, Miss CLAY, Mrs. J. J. WILSON, Mrs. PROUDFOOT, Miss M. A. BRANTHWAITE. Mrs. NOBLE. Mrs. GREEN.

It has also been communicated that interesting and instructive Books, or popular Periodicals, such as the "Leisure Hour," "Chambers' Miscellany," "Household Words," or any other Works which can be spared, suitable for a Library for the Hospitals, would be thankfully received, and contribute much to the comfort of the Patients in their recovery.

> The Warehouse of Messrs. WHITWELL & Co., Stricklandgate. .. , Messrs. J. J. & W. Wilson, Stramongate.
> .. , Messrs. Somervell, Netherfield.

Are appointed as Depôts to receive Contributions of Linen and Books, in order to despatch them to London, that they may be immediately forwarded to the East.

N.B. Any parcels of old Lisen, however small, will be received if labelled "Linen for the East," and well-worn Cotton will also be very acceptable. It is desired that the unscamed linen be kept seperate from the seamed, though both may be in the same parcel. The cotton also should be seperate from the linen.

P.S. All contibutions that can possibly be sent by FRIDAY first will be despatched this week. The remainder on the following Friday.

J. Hudson, PRINTER, KENDAL.

The appeal is for lint and linen '... to be transmitted the hospitals of our Army on the East, especially to Scutari...'.

It refers to the example of 'those ladies who with Christian heroism, have left their land to watch by the bedsides of the sick and the disabled, ministering to their sufferings and their wants'.

Contributions of books and popular periodicals such as Leisure Hour and Household Words were also requested for a hospital library for the patients.